Message from our Chapter Directors

Gold Wing Road Riders Association:
Big Sky, Region I & WA District

In my message last month, I optimistically stated that we might start seeing some reasonably decent weather in the near term, despite what was reported from Gobbler's Knob, Pennsylvania. Turns out that there just might be something to Punxsutawney Phil seeing his shadow after all. If you are good at trivia (and believe me I'm not), you will recall that Phil saw his shadow last month and, therefore, predicted 6 more weeks of winter. Maybe we should bone up on trivia and be better informed.

On a more positive note and for the most part, March is still a good month to start thinking seriously about what we have to do get ourselves, and our equipment, in ride shape. If you generally keep your bike on a battery tender, you're probably okay in the battery department, although you might want to think about the battery service life and how long that puppy has been good to you. Make sure your coolant levels and tires are good and give some thought to when you last changed the oil. If you do get out while it is still cold, be especially attentive to road surface conditions. Black ice is not always visible and can still linger in shaded areas. Do what we all do so well by riding smart, particularly while it is still cold out.

It's not really the bikes that should give us the most pause though, but what we use to ride them...our bodies! It is so very easy to take for granted our fitness for riding and exactly what sort of toll the off season has on our legs & hips, back, shoulders and hand strength. Start now to get those legs and hips stretched out by walking and even some light exercise. A good method for targeting all of the muscle areas that we use most for riding is to walk while holding some light weights in each hand, or with ankle weights at a moderate weight. We should be maintaining a good level of fitness to ride, not riding to stay fit.

We're getting close though...awful close. We just completed our annual fund raiser at Surf Watch and we are a week or so away from the Rider Education Workshop. For this year, the schedule includes a First Aid/CPR Class. If you need refresher, or have been thinking about taking a class like this for the first time, sign up. Those life saving skills are not overrated and just might help you save someone very close to you.

Thank you for your continued support...together we can continue to keep our Chapter vibrant and fun for all of us.

Authority or Responsibility?

In the course of our travels and interaction with GWRRA Members, especially Officers, there seems to be a recurring theme we hear and see from some in leadership positions within GWRRA. The question usually comes up when there is an issue, and it seems someone has decided to act or react a certain way. The questions are usually centered around the issue of authority. Where (or when) does a Chapter Director have the authority to decide what a Member should or should not do? Where does a Region Director have the authority to decide the outcome of an issue within a Chapter? Who has the authority to tell anyone anything to do?

The Officer Guide Book under the "Especially for the Chapter Director" section is unique in many ways. It describes how a Chapter Director should function and work with their Chapter. But nowhere in that entire section is the word "authority" ever used. Imagine that, the word "authority" is never mentioned. However, the word "responsibility" is used often. You may say, "What's the difference?" Let's examine both.

The dictionary defines authority as: "the right to control, command, or determine." Can a Chapter Director control or command any Member? Of course not. We are all volunteers so at any time a volunteer can simply say, "I will not" and the Chapter Director cannot do a thing. Any Chapter Director, District Director, Region Director, and any other volunteer leader is bound by the same fact. We exercise no control nor are we able to command any Member to do anything they do not wish to do. A Member can choose to leave a Chapter or even the Association any time they wish. Therefore, what authority does a Director really have?

The dictionary defines responsibility as: "answerable or accountable, as for something within one's power, control, or management." Does this better describe a GWRRA Officer? It certainly does because every Officer within the Association has responsibilities. The Officer Guide Book is full of the responsibilities for the GWRRA Officer at every level.

When a Member accepts a leadership position in this Association they accept "responsibilities". The goals of a Director at any level is to manage their area of responsibilities and to adhere to the goals and regulations of the position. Yes, they may have to remind a Member of how things work in GWRRA. It is not their authority that allows that but merely their responsibility. The difference is largely in attitude and understanding of the Director's position, not a power given to them. The ultimate responsibility of a Director is the acceptance of what they can and what they cannot manage or control. The only real thing a Director can control or have authority over is themselves.

In conclusion, the attitude of any Director on any level should be an attitude of service. We have greater responsibilities with little or no authority. We manage and direct volunteers, who at any time may choose to follow us and work with us or choose not to. People are as diverse as you can imagine, and we as leaders need the tools necessary to be good leaders and motivators. But to assume we have the authority to tell anyone what to do and expect them to follow our directions merely because we wear a patch is not realistic. We need our volunteer Members to help us to fulfill our responsibilities, and a good leader finds ways to inspire and motivate the membership. This is a primary goal of the Leadership Training Division, and we need to help our leaders to understand this.

GWRRA*NEWS PAGE *CONTINUEDLifeLock® Added to GWRRA Discount Benefit Program

Phoenix, AZ (February 20, 2009) — Phoenix, AZ – Melissa Eason, Executive Director of the Gold Wing Road Riders Association (GWRRA), announced that LifeLock®, one of the first and fastest growing identity theft solution providers in the market, has been added to their already extensive list of discount membership benefit programs.

Identity theft is one of the nation's fastest growing crimes, affecting nearly 10 million Americans last year. Here's the good news: GWRRA has partnered with LifeLock®, to provide all GWRRA members with an exclusive discount on their industry-leading identity theft protection service. LifeLock® works to help stop identity theft before it happens. And what they don't stop, they'll fix at their expense, up to $1,000,000.

Visit <http://www.gwrroa.org/membership.html> and click on the LifeLock® link to enroll. Use promotion code GWRRA to protect yourself and receive a 10% discount.

LifeLock® deters identity theft by setting and maintaining "fraud alerts" with the four major credit bureaus. In addition, LifeLock®:

- Includes a $1 million service guarantee
- Searches the web for the illegal selling of your information
- Verifies change of address requests
- Requests you be removed from pre-approved credit card lists
- Requests free annual credit reports
- Protects children's identities

While other companies promise identity theft recovery or insurance services, LifeLock's strength is prevention. They prefer to stop identity theft from occurring in the first place. In fact, they are so confident their service works, it is backed with a $1 million guarantee.

Success is contagious and people are listening. More and more savvy consumers are recognizing the need to protect their good names, and acting on it. So join LifeLock® now by checking out GWRRA's benefit page or call 800-843-9460 for more information.

Founded in 1977, the Gold Wing Road Riders Association is the largest single marque motorcycle organization in the world, with 75,000 Members in 52 countries. Call 800-843-9460 or in Phoenix 623-581-2500 for information or to join or renew and be eligible for these and more great benefits.

Split Payment Plan

GWRRA is now offering a payment plan for your membership renewal. Instead of paying one lump sum, you can now renew your membership for one, two, or three years and make two payments. Simply pay half the first month you renew and the rest the following month. There are no additional charges or steps you have to go through. What could be easier?

Excessive Lean Angle . . . and what it taught me about practice

I just slowed, downshifted to second; looked through the curve for the exit, started to roll on the throttle and the next thing I know I was sliding down the practice range without my bike. The first thing I said after I made it back to my feet was, "What happened?" The reply was crisp and concise, "Excessive lean angle." Yep, I crashed; no damage to me other than a slightly bruised ego. This turned out to be a "bad news, good news" story. The bad news is I crashed; the good news is it happened during a facilitated training session where I had someone to give me coaching about the error I made.

So what does this have to do with practice? Simple, I learned from my several days at the course was that I need to be much more careful about the amount of lean I introduce while maneuvering through hard curves and I have gotten a bit lazy using my front brake properly. The lean angle thing lesson was clear, but it turns out I have gotten lazy with the front brake squeeze because I have come to depend on the linked braking systems on my bikes. So now, I spend at least part of every ride consciously working on those issues.

Now since I have told you what I am working on, I would bet that if you were to really look at your riding skills and be honest with yourself, you could identify some things that you do not feel completely comfortable about while riding. (Perhaps U-turns; excessive slow traffic maneuvering?). How often do you get a chance to practice? Well the chapter has been working on this for you. GWRRA calls it Parking Lot Practice (PLPs)

As you know, Dave has been pushing for attendance at PLPs for some time. I recommend you try one out; I will almost guarantee you will find skills you need improving. Besides, this is free and a great opportunity for you to identify and practice skills in a non-threatening, safe and facilitated environment.

Remember we all can get better and are constantly looking for an edge to make us safer, so take the time to attend one of our PLPs. Who knows maybe you will find something you want to work on. Next scheduled PLP is April 11, 2009 from 1000 to 1200 Noon at Redmond High School. Can anyone say "Excessive lean angle"?

FACTOIDS & FUNNIES

"A Compendium of Facts & Information That Will Astound and Amaze You"

KNOW THE SYMPTOMS...PLEASE READ!

Recently, I was diagnosed with Age Activated Attention Deficit Disorder (AAADD). This is how it manifests:

1.) I decide to water my garden.

As I turn on the hose in the driveway, I look over at my car and decide it needs washing.

As I start toward the garage, I notice mail on the porch table that I brought up from the mailbox earlier.

2.) I decide to go through the mail before I wash the car.

I lay my car keys on the table, put the junk mail in the garbage can under the table, and notice that the can is full.

3.) So, I decide to put the bills back on the table and take out the garbage first. But then I think, since I'm going to be near the mailbox when I take out the garbage anyway, I may as well pay the bills first. I take my checkbook off the table, and see that there is only one check left. My extra checks are in my desk in the study, so I go inside the house to my desk where I find the can of Pepsi I'd been drinking. I'm going to look for my checks, but first I need to push the Pepsi aside so that I don't accidentally knock it over.

4.) The Pepsi is getting warm, and so I decide to put it in the refrigerator to keep it cold.

As I head toward the kitchen with the Pepsi, a vase of flowers on the counter catches my eye--they need water.

I put the Pepsi on the counter and discover my reading glasses that I've been searching for all morning.

5.) I decide I better put my reading glasses back on my desk, but first I'm going to water the flowers.

I set the glasses back down on the counter, fill a container with water and suddenly spot the TV remote.

Someone left it on the kitchen table.

6.) I realize that tonight when we go to watch TV, I'll be looking for the remote, but I won't remember that it's on the kitchen table, so I decide to put it back in the den where it belongs, but first I'll water the flowers. I pour some water in the flowers, but quite a bit of it spills on the floor.

7.) So, I decide to set the remote back on the table, get some towels and wipe up the spill.

Then, as I head down the hall I find myself trying to remember exactly what I was planning to do.

At the end of the day:

2.) The car isn't washed;

0.) The bills aren't paid;

7.) There is a warm can of Pepsi sitting on the counter;

5.) The flowers are dry and haven't been watered;

3.) There is still only 1 check in my check book and I'm not sure why;

7.) I can't find the TV remote;

0.) I can't find my reading glasses; and

1.) I don't remember what I did with the car keys.

Then, when I try to figure out why nothing got done today, I'm really baffled because I know I was busy all damn day, and I'm really tired. I realize this is a serious problem, and I'll try to get some help for it, but first...

I decide to check my e-mail...
